Valuable Real estate for Sale.

PURSUANT to the last Will and Testament of the late Col. RICHARD BROWN, deceased I NOW OFFER FOR SALE, the Farm on which he resided, on the Ohio River, in Halliday's Cove, in Brook County, Virginia.

This Estate consists of about 700 Acres of Land, 50 of which is a rich Island, the remainder principally second bottom and upland; that part of the upland which is not tillable, is covered with timber suitable for furnishing the Island and tillable part with fencing and building timber. There are between 150 and 200 acres cleared and under cultivation, a suitable proportion of which in good meadow land. The buildings consist in two large dwelling houses and a log barn with under story of stone. It is well supplied with very fine springs of good water.

The situation of this property on the Ohio River, seven miles from the flourishing Town of Steubenville and in the neighbourhood of several Merchant Mills, Iron Works, &c. renders it a desirable object to a person who would wish to farm extensively, as he would probably at all times have a good market at his door for the produce of the farm. A part of the purchase will be required in hand, and for the remainder a reasonable credit will be given.

Pittsburgh, July 25, 1817.

To Owners of Horses.

A NUMBER of the merchants of Philadelphia, desirous of promoting the internal intercourse of the state, and of facilitating their trade and connection with the western states, have united themselves into an association, under the name of "The Philadelphia and Pittsburgh Transporting Company." Their object is to reduce and equalize throughout the year, the cost of carriage, and to diminish the time now required, for the transport of merchandize to the western waters. They therefore purpose to establish Lines of Wagons, to start daily from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, to run day and night, changing horses every ten miles.

It must be evident to every enlightened person, that the success of the proposed system is most intimately connected with the interests of the whole community. It is important for the interiour of our state, that the trade of the western country should be maintained with the Atlantick cities; to secure which, the plan now contemplated, it is believed, will be effectual. A reduction in the rates, and in the time required for the transportation of Goods, to and from the Atlantick cities to the western waters, will enable the farmers and others to transmit their products to market with facility and cheapness, and procure a supply of foreign articles on more favourable terms. It will also increase the demand for horses, travelling, the value of lands, and in fine, add much to the improvement and importance of the towns and country on the route. Owners of horses, will find constant and profitable employment for them near their homes, which is surely preferable to uncertain employment at a distance.

PROPOSALS WILL BE RECEIVED,

For hauling the Wagons, any number of sections of ten miles, each section, going and returning, to be performed within every twenty hours, and persons desirous of contracting will state the section or sections they will contract for.

The loading as far as Carlisle, will not exceed 4000 lbs. and from thence to Pittsburgh 3500, or 3200 when the roads are in a bad state.

The following conditions will be required.

1. Each contractor must give satisfactory security for the faithful performance of his contract.
2. Each contract must be for one year.
3. The contractor to be at every expense for his horses and driver, including the harness.
4. The Wagons must travel two miles an hour, changing horses every ten miles without any unnecessary delay.
5. The contractors will be accountable to the Company, for all delays or damages which may arise from fraud or mismanagement upon the road, embraced within their contract.

Turnpike and Bridge Tolls will be paid by the Company.

Application to be made by Letter as early as possible, directed to the Subscriber, agent for the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh Transporting Company in Philadelphia.

BAY OF NAPLES.

Mr. Eustace in his tour through Italy, has been remarked for the unrivalled felicity of his sketches of picturesque scenery—the author had arrived at Naples in the evening from Rome and the following scene burst upon his view in the morning—

"Few scenes surpass in beauty that which burst full upon me when I awoke next morning. In front and under my windows the bay of Naples spread its azure surface, smooth as glass, while a thousand boats glided in different directions over its shining bosom: on the right, the town extended along the semicircular shore, and Posilipo rose close behind it, with churches and villas, vineyards and pines scattered in confusion along the shores, and on its ridge, till, sloping as it advanced, the bold hill terminated in a craggy promontory. On the left, at the end of a walk that forms the quay and skirts the sea, the Castle dell' Novo, standing on an insulated rock, caught the eye for a moment—while beyond it, over a vast expanse of water, a rugged line of mountains stretched forward, and softening its features as it projected presented towns, villages, and convents, lodged amidst its forests and precipices; and at length terminated in the cape of Minerva, now of Surrentum. Opposite, and full in view, rose the island of Caprea with its white cliffs and ridgy summit, placed as a barrier to check the tempest, and protect the interior of the bay from its fury. This scene, illuminated by a sun that never shines so bright on the less favored regions beyond the Alps, is justly considered as the most splendid and beautiful exhibition which nature perhaps presents to the human eye, and cannot but excite in the spectator when beheld for the first time, emotions of delight and admiration that border on enthusiasm. Nor are the charms of recollection that are capable of improving even the lovliest features of nature, here wanting to complete the enchantment—Naples and its coasts have never been, it is true, the theatre of heroic achievements, or the stage of grand and unusual incidents; but they have been the residence of the great and the wise—they have aided the meditations of the sage, and awakened the raptures of the poet;—and as long as the Latin muses continue to instruct mankind, so long will travellers visit with delight the academy of Cicero, the tomb of Virgil, and the birth place of Tasso."

THE MISERIES OF WAR.

Extract from the memoirs of General Wilkinson, vol. 1. page 246.

"The morning after the action,* I visited the wounded prisoners, who had not been dressed, and discovered a charming youth, not more than 16 years old, lying among them: feeble, faint, pale, and stiff in his gore, the delicacy of his aspect, and the quality of his clothing, attracted my attention, and on enquiry, I found he was an ensign Phillips; he told me he had fallen from a wound in his leg or thigh, and as he lay on the ground he was shot through the body, by an army follower, a murderous villain, who avowed the deed, but I forget his name; the moans of this hapless youth affected me to tears; I raised him again, took him in my arms, and removed him to a tent, where every comfort was provided, and every attention paid to him, but his wounds were mortal, and he expired on the 21st. When his name was first mentioned to General Gates, he exclaimed, "Just heaven he may be the nephew of my wife," but the fact was otherwise.

Let those parents who are training their children for the military profession, let those patriots who are inculcating principles of education, subversive of the foundations of the republic, look on this picture of distress, taken from the life of a youth in a land, far removed from friends and relations, —co-mingled with the dying and the dead, himself wounded, helpless, and expiring with agony, and then should political considerations fail of effect, I hope the feelings of affection, and the obligations of humanity, may induce them to discountenance the pursuits of war, and save their offspring from the seduction of the plume and the sword for the more solid and useful avocations, of civil life; by which alone peace and virtue and the republic can be preserved and perpetuated—a dupe during my whole life to the prejudices I [illegible] robate, I speak from experience, and discharge a conscientious duty, when I warn my country against military enthusiasm and the pride of Arms; and against the intrigues by which the yeomanry, the palladium of the republic are depreciated, and standing armies and large navies are encouraged. For what would it avail the citizens of the United States. if, in a polititcal frenzy, they should barter their rights and liberties for national renown, and who would exchange the blessings of freedom, for the repute of having eclipsed the whole human race, in feats of valor, and the deeds of arms?—this is a serious question! It affects the vital interests of every freeman, and the course of the government makes it proper and necessary, that the citizens of these states should pause and reflect before it is too late: we have escaped from one war with a crippled constitution, the next will probably destroy it, therefore let the motto of the state be PEACE."

Sarcasm and Irony of Mr. Curran the Irish Orator.

A bill having been presented to the Commons for limiting the amount of pensions, it was opposed, upon the idea that it would "stop the fountain of royal favour which ought to flow freely, spontaneously and abundantly like Hollywell in Wales."

Mr. Curran observed "I am surprised that gentlemen have taken up such a foolish opinion as that our constitution is maintained by its different component parts mutually checking and controlling each other; they seem to think with Hobbes, that a state of nature is a state of warfare, & that like Mahommet's coffin, the constitution is suspended between the attractions of different powers. My friends seem to think that the crown should be restrained from doing wrong by a physical necessity, forgetting that if you take away from man all power to do wrong, you at the same time take away from him all merit of doing right, and by making it impossible for men to run into slavery you enslave them more effectually. But instead of three different parts of our constitution drawing forcibly in right lines at opposite directions, if they were to unite their power, and draw all one way, in one right line, how great would be the effect of their force, how happy the direction of this union. The present system is not only contrary to mathematical rectitude, but to public harmony; but if instead of privilege setting up his back to oppose Prerogative, he was to saddle his back and invite Prerogative to ride, how comfortably they might both jog along; and therefore it delights me to hear the advocates for the royal bounty flowing freely, spontaneously and abundantly as Holywell in Wales."

But this complaisance is not confined at home, "it extends its influence to foreign powers. Our merchants have been insulted in Portugal, our commerce interdicted; what did the British lion do? did he whet his tusks? did he bristle up and shake his mane? did he roar? No such thing, the gentle creature wagged his tail for six years at the Court of Lisbon, and now we hear from the Delphic Oracle on the Treasury bench, that he is wagging his tail in London to Chevalier Pinto, who, he hopes soon to be able to tell us, will allow his lady to entertain him as a lap dog; and when she does, no doubt the British factory will furnish some of their softest woollens to make a cushion for him to lie upon." "This polyglot of wealth, this museum of curiosities, the pension list, embraces every link in the human chain, every description of men, women and children, from the exalted excellence of a Hawk or a Rodney, to the debased situation of the lady who humbleth herself that she may be exalted; But the lesson it inculates forms its greatest perfection. It teacheth the idle and dissolute to look up for that support which they are too proud to stoop and earn. It directs the minds of men to an intire reliance on the ruling power of the state, who feed the ravens of the royal aviary that cry continually for food. It teaches them to imitate these saints on the pension list that they are like the lillies of the field—they toil not, neither do they spin, and yet are arrayed like Solomon in all his glory. In fine it teaches a lesson which indeed they might have learned from Epictetus—that it is sometimes good not to be over—virtuous; it shews that in proportion as our diseases increase the munificence of the crown increases also; in proportion as our clothes are rent the royal mantle is extended over us."

LONDON, May 26.

Lord Cochrane, ejected by stratagem the sheriff's officer who was put in possession of his house at Holy Hill. The bell was rung violently, and the officer stepped without the kitchen door, his Lordship shut it against him, refused him re-admission, and threatened destruction to him the under sheriff, and a posse of assistance, who afterwards demanded repossession. His Lordship, to deter the officers, fired off a gun at one of the windows, and placed what apparently were bags of gunpowder at the windows and doors, with trains leading to them, and notice stuck up—"Take notice, explosion bags are set within—— thieves beware!"——The high sheriff, armed with legal advice from London, and a sufficient force, at length obtained entrance, vi et armis, and found his lordship in the library, who, offering no resistance, was permitted to depart. The Trains, supposed to be gunpowder, were found to be only powdered charcoal, and his gun at that time charged only with powder.

LONDON, May 27—The Royal George. The first survey was made on Saturday morning, by means of the diving bell, of the Royal George, which sunk at Spithead about 55 years since. She lies nearly east and west, with her head to the westward, and with a trifleng inclination on her larboard bilge. The whole of her decks have fallen in, and the starboard broadside upon them; there is, in fact, no appearance whatever of her originsl formation, her remains appearing as a pile of ruinous timber work. The surface of her timbers is decayed, but the heart of them is sound. Not the least vestige of her guns, anchors, spars or masts was discovered, and the whole of her head and rail work has gone to pieces; the guns must have fallen into the hull, among the wreck. There is no bank or great accumulation of mud around her; the hollows in her hull contain a quanttiy of black mucous mud: the natural sediment of the tides. It would not be difficult either to saw her in pieces or blow her up; but she cannot be weighed in a body, from her dilapidated unconnected state,

The bell on being let down touched on her larboard broadside, passed round her bows, and was brought up from her starboard broadside. It is fully expected the navy board will give directions immediately for the breaking up and removal of her remains.

It is supposed, as the men were just paid their wages before her sinking, that much specie will be found on board this unfortunate vessel.

LONDON, May 15.

Humorous Trial.—At the Quarter Sessions for Liverpool, Patrick Fitzsimmons was tried on Wednesday se'en night for stealing a watchman's great coat. It was proved, the prisoner had, on the night of the 6th ult. broken open a watchman,s box, and taken away the coat, which was found upon him about an hour afterwards. The prisoner, who, as his name imports, is a native of the sister kingdom, being called upon for his defence, placed himself in an oratorical position, and said, "May it plase your Honors, I am accused of breaking into a watchman's box, and stealing away his coat; but I am perfectly innocent, and I'll tell you just how it happened:—I had been out drinking on the night they mention, and I had, to be sure, got mortally drunk; that I know is very wrong. About two o'clock in the morning, as I was going staggering home, I asked this here watchman, 'Can you tell me where I can get a lodging, or where I can get something to drink?' 'No,' said he, 'all the houses are shut up now; but in an hour and a half there will be a house open, where they sell capital purl, so step into my watch-box, slip on my great coat, and make yourself asy, while I go my rounds, and when I come back we'll see what can be done.' I did as he bid me; he locked the door, and in a moment I was asleep. Soon after I waked, and finding myself boxed up in this narrow cell, I could not dream where I was; so setting my feet against the door, I burst open the box, and walked out, quite forgetting I had on the watchman's coat. On my way up the street, I met two other watchmen, and asked them, 'Could I get any thing to drink?' They told me there was a house hard by, where they sold rum at 6d. a glass. I said (saving your Honors' presence) that was devlish dear; but I went in, and they went with me. When the reckoning came to be paid, I happened to have no money; so one of the watchmen said to me, 'How came you, Pat, by that great coat?' I said, 'Sure, it is my own, not meaning to steal it, but intending only to keep myself warm with it until it was daylight. My companions, however, hawled me away to Bridewell; and this, plase your Honors, is the whole truth. Is it likely that a man that has been sixteen years in Liverpool should be so foolish as to break open a watch-box! Did not I know that there is generally in these places nothing but a broom and a shovel. And how could I tell that the watchman himself was not in his box.

This defence was delivered with great fluency and animation; and the Recorder, in addressing the Jury, said, that though this was the best speech he had heard for the last six months, yet he feared, if they acquitted the the prisoner, it must be rather for his ingenuity than his in[illegible] After a short deliberation, the jury ed a verdict of guilty; and the C[illegible] tenced Fitzsimmons to 14 days i[illegible] ment.

PITTSBURGH.

TUESDAY, JULY 29, 1817.

It appears to be the prevailing opinion with the candid and reflecting persons of every political party in our district, that at the approaching general election, the most intelligent and best qualified men, without regard to party, should be selected to represent us in the State Legislature, and to fill the county offices. Important local objects, and the particular interests of the western section of Pennsylvania, require that this liberal policy should be adopted. It can have no influence upon the election for governor, nor can it affect the general politics of the State. The growing importance of the city of Pittsburgh, and the wealth and intelligence of the surrounding country, require that we should be ably represented at Harrisburgh.

In order, therefore, to carry this desirable object into effect, the electors, without respect to party, are requested to meet in their respective townships, and in the two wards of the city of Pittsburgh, at the usual place of holding elections, on Saturday the 9th of August next, and select four suitable persons from each ward and township, to meet in a convention proposed to be held at William Morrow's tavern, on Wednesday the 13th of August next, (court week) at 11 o'clock, A. M.

On Saturday last, there was a public examination of the young Ladies, pupils of Mrs. and Miss Brevost, in this city; at which were present, several of the Rev. clergy, and other professional characters. The classes gave the fullest evidence of their proficiency in the various branches taught, viz. Reading, Writing, English Grammar, Arithmetic, Geography, History, the French language, Painting, and Music, vocal and instrumental.

The exercises of the evening were concluded by a hymn, and an appropriate address to the throne of Grace, by the Rev. Mr. Stockton.

To the amiable and accomplished Ladies, who preside over, and conduct this interesting seminary, and to their excellent assistants, the greatest praise is due, for the perfect arrangements and exquisite taste displayed in every department.

To the citizens of this section of the western country, it is a subject of congratulation, that the means of a correct and refined education, are now completely within their reach.

A bet of 1100 dollars on the result of the election for governor in the counties of Union, Northumberland, Columbia and Centre, was lately made in Philadelphia, between John Binns, on the side of Mr. Findlay, and citizens of the counties above named, on the side of Mr. Heister.

A letter, dated, New-Orleans the 15th ult. states, that the United States frigate Congress was at that port, preparing to sail to Port-au-Prince for the purpose of demanding satisfaction for the recent and unjustifiable execution of an American seaman.

The Sackett's harbor story, that the Canadas are to be exchanged for some French possessions in the Mediterranean, is one of the weakest of all the brood which folly, ignorance and credulity, are continually hatching out. The existing state of things in Europe, as it respects territory, and other particulars, is guaranteed by all the great Powers of Europe, and no one of them can barter or exchange an inch of it without the consent of all. Changes of garrisons; &c. are frequently made for their exercise and health.

Lake Erie—A writer in the Albany Argus states, that an excellent harbor has been discovered, exactly half way between Buffalo and Erie, 45 miles from each. It is called Dunkirk. The form of the bay is nearly a semicircle, with a capacious channel towards the west head land of 12 feet depth, and on the east of 10 feet—Within the ledge is a spacious basin capable of containing 100 sail of vessels with from 12 to 18 feet of water, and good anchorage.

DISASTER AT PORT-AU-PRINCE.

Letters from Port-au-Prince received by the Spanish schooner Good Hope, mention that the great Magazine in the neighborhood of that place, containing 120,000 lbs. of powder had been struck by lightning, & the town had suffered much by this terrible explosion. The day following another magazine containing 28,000 lbs, was blown up by the officer who had charge of it, in revenge for an affront the had received from his superior officer.

The markets at Port au-Prince had fallen materially, in consequence of several sales.

From St. Francisville, (West Florida) Centinel, June 17.

The Sabbath.—Sunday last, the Merchants of this village closed their doors, by general consent, and refused to transact any business, or sell a single commodity! —This is the first determined effort we recollect to have known made in Louisiana, to pay a due respect to that holy day.

The art of writing about nothing appears to have arrived at a higher state of perfection in Philadelphia, than in any other place, though it must be confessed in this age of tranquility, most of the unfortunate wights of the quill in this country, are not unfrequently hard pushed for subjects.

Those celebrated pop-gun batteries, the Aurora and Democratic Press, commanded by those puissant, long-winded officers, Colonels Duane and Binns, keep up an incessant fire upon each other, but with what success remains yet to be seen.—These gentleman rail, and talk, and write, and fight, apparently about nothing, perhaps with greater facility than any others in the union. Unlike ordinary commanders, who generally decide a battle in one, or in three days at farthest these valiant chiefs renew their engagements with the same regularity that the earth performs her diurnal revolutions. The latter hero gave notice some weeks since that his foes had "plotted a plot," under cover of the night, to make a sortie upon his battlements, whereupon, he, like a true soldier, issued a bulletin in due and regular form, setting forth that he had discovered the diabolical designs of his enemies, and declaring moreover that no "assault" upon his "battery" could be submitted to peaceably; and even should he be so unfortunate as to be taken by storm and flogged, he would never acknowledge himself beaten. From some cause or other, the sortie has not yet taken place; probably for the very substantial reason that it would be folly to waste ammunition or lives in vanquishing a foe who had proclaimed that he would never be conquered. Nevertheless, the battle waxeth not the less cool. For no sooner does old Mistress Darkness get up in the morning, rub her eyes take of her night cap, and roll up her curtains, than the two chiefs rise from their slumbers,

"Fierce as ten furies: terrible as hell;"

place themselves at the head of their columns, and sally forth, breathing smoke and vengeance, destroying, blowing up and shattering every character that has been fortunate enough to escape the preceding day. Every thing that comes in their way is tortured shattered or decomposed in a twinkling. The two chiefs "fire away without pity or remorse, in sheets, columns, hand-bills or squibs; great cannon, little cannon, pica, german text, and run each other through and through with sharp-pointed Italics."

> Oh! had Great Britian's god-like shore,
> Sent us but ten such heroes more,

every aristocrat, tory, traitor, monarchist old-schoolite, new-schoolite, & blue-light on the continent, would long since have been blown sky-high by these imported invincibles.

Amidst all this martial display, one would suppose that the good citizens of Philadelphia must be marvellously delighted, to have their city filled with legions, columns battalions and regiments of the hardest words to be found in the Scoundrel's Dictonary, not to mention vollies of squibs and crackers flying in all directions, with here and there the skeleton of a character that has been shivered or blown up by some of those infernal institutes for fireships or bombketches, called editorial broadsides and Tammany addresses.—"But, says the honest reader, "what does all this amount to?"—Fifteen words will answer the enquiry--simply to a specimen of the art and mystery of writing about nothing.—Albany Gaz.

Our National Anniversary, on the 4th inst. was celebrated, at Ellington in Connecticut, in a manner both novel and interesting. At an early hour in the morning, the inhabitants of the town assembled at the Village church, and resolved to devote the day to the business of quarrying and drawing stone for the purpose of erecting a wall around their Parish burying-ground. Fifty-three Ox-teams, it is said, were employed during the day in that service. They drew (on an average distance of more than two miles) two hundred and twelve loads. The loads, were estimated at three tons each—comprising a mass of more than six hundred tons. Each man furnished his own food and the forage for his team. "The work went on harmoniously. Minister as well as people put forth the laboring hand. No accicent happened; and all retired at the close of the day with this consoling reflection, that they had not spent the day in feasting and rioting while the place of their Fathers' Sepulchres lay waste."

APPROVED
Patent and Family
MEDICINES, FOR SALE BY
J. W. SKELTON,
Pittsburgh Apothecary Hall,
Corner of Third and Wood streets
AND SKELTON AND HILL,
Market street, near the Diamond,
PITTSBURGH.

Doctor Bossy's
Celebrated Elixir of Health.

A medicine, possessing extraordinary powers in arresting the progress, and effectually curing consumption, with all its train of distressing symptoms—a disease which from its frequency, and difficulty of cure within the last three or four years, seems to threaten destruction to a great portion of our population. The author of this medicine is an aged german physician, of great celebrity and acknowledged talents, (residing in the city of London) whose wonderful success in the cure of consumption, has sounded forth his name to the utmost extent of Great Britain.

It is hoped and expected so great a blessing will not long remain untried by the inhabitants of America, whose diseased lungs, with teazing cough, loss of appetite, decay of strength, loss of flesh, pain in the chest, and depression of spirits, warns them of approaching dissolution.

DELAYS ARE DANGEROUS.

Not to try the means which Providence has placed within our reach, is little less than being our own executioners. It is therefore the duty of every afflicted mortal to seek a remedy in time.

While there is life there is hope!
To-morrow may come too late!!

Dr. Bossy's
Hysteric Drops.

A medicine, which has been for many years used with great success, both in Europe and America, speedily removing the most violent fits of Hysterics, like a charm.

Dr. Bossy's Lotion,
For burns and scalds.

Slight burns and scalds, if taken immediately will in general be cured by this Liniment. In case of a fever intervening, Epsom salts taken in small quantities, will assist the cure.

When the mischief is extensive or deep, mortification may be apprehended, whether the subject be young or old; the advice therefore of a skilful physician or surgeon, should be procured without delay.

Dr. Bossy's Embrocation,
For bruises, strains, inflammations, rheumatism, &c.

A medicine in every respect superior to the common Steer's Opodeldoc, (so universally used) No medicine ever sold has a greater claim on the public than the one now offered; it being a useful external application for sprains, bruises, childblains, and for dispersing inflammatory tumours, rheumatism, burns scalds, &c.

Dr. Bossy's India Oil,
For the cure of cancers, wens, and all stubborn tumours, &c.

This celebrated Oil, the production of the East Indies, was first discovered by that great, and much celebrated physician of the East Indies, Fo[illegible], whose great medical information, has reached the most remote parts of Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Russia, and the United States.

Thousands of empyrics and quacks, are daily offering to the world the most deadly poisons, such as Arsenic, muriate of Mercury, Cicuta, &c. in the form of plaisters, Tinctures, Solutions, Pills, &c. thereby destroying the lives of hundreds and thousands of the community.

Infallible Remedy
For destroying Bugs in bedsteads, furniture &c.

This mixture will infallibly destroy them and their nits, though they swarm ever so much. It is necessary that the bed or furniture should be thoroughly wet with it, the dust being first shaken off which will prevent the mixture staining in the least, or soiling even the richest silks, &c. Should any bugs appear after once using this mixture it will be only owing to not having well wetted the linen &c. of the bed with it. So that those parts being well wetted with the liquid, which dries as fast as it is used, and pouring in the joints and holes, where the sponge or brush cannot reach, they never fail of being all destroyed

N. B. It is necessary that the mixture should be well shaken together before it is used.

Doctor Velnos'
TURKISH GLUE or ARMENIAN CEMENT,
For mending China, glass, &c.

A discovery of first magnitude in domestic economy. Thousands of articles, many of the most useful are daily committed to the street &c for the want of some suitable Cement, to mend them. The one now offered has proved by experience, to answer the purpose, and will even join glass or china, so strong that it will often break in a fresh place.

Balsamic Aromatic Tincture,
Or the grand corrector of flatulence and acidity in the bowels of children.

A medicine so well calculated to relieve the bowel complaint of infant children, (as it is so emphatically called by nurses) that it needs only the trial of a single bottle, to recommend it to the attention of a family.

To alleviate the sufferings of infant children, has called forth the talents of the most eminent physicians of every age, and the want of success appears chiefly to arise from the deeply rooted prejudices of parents and nurses, which the healing art has had to contend with. In this enlightened age much has been done towards banishing ancient prejudices, and we now find children taking good and physic, on much more rational principles than formerly. It is a fact clearly ascertained, that most of the diseases incident to children, do arise from bad management, want of cleanliness, and indigestible food.

The medicine here recommended is known to the most eminent physicians, for correcting acidity, promoting the digestive powers, warming and invigorating the stomach, and giving immediate ease in the most excruciating pains of the bowels.

The dose to a child a month old is sixty drops—three months old, eighty drops—six months old a tea spoonfull; after which, thirty drops may be added for every year of their age.

The mixture to be well shaken, and mixed with barley water, balm or mint tea, or cold water, and repeated every sixth hour till ease is procured.

Velno's Vegetable Ointment,
For the cure of the Rheumatism

Perhaps no country in the world is so subject to Rheumatism, as the United States of America. The most learned of the medical faculty, has not before been able to produce a medicine which would with certainty cure this dreadful scourge of mankind. Thousands of victims are at this day labouring under the most excruciating pain, from different and lasting attacks of this most formidable disease.

Doctor Velnos is happy in informing the citizens of the United States of America, that after laborious study and practice of forty years, he has at length found out a medicine, which will infallibly cure the Rheumatism in every stage; and strongly recommends to all who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with the disease, to give this valuable medicine a trial: being composed of the most innocent vegetables, the young, the old, the aged and infirm may use it with the most perfect safety, and may rely with confidence on a perfect cure, if within the reach of medicine.

Since Doctor Velnos first discovered this very valuable vegetable Ointment, thousands have been cured; many who had not the use of their limbs for many years before.

Dr. Hartman's Worm Cakes.

This is a mild and exceeding good vermifuge, may be given at all times with the greatest safety to the youngest infant, or pregnant women. It is celebrated for an astringent, which strengthens the tone of the stomach and intestines, and hence proves useful in disorders arising from laxity of the fibres, dropsical and bilious complaints or when the bowels are obstructed with slime.

Doran's Chymical Cake,
For removing grease from silk, cotton or woollen goods.

DOCTOR BREE'S TINCTURE.
For Asthma, Coughs, Colds, and approaching Consumptions.

Dr. Velnos' Antipertesis,
For the cure of Hooping Cough.

A medicine justly entitled to universal approbation, having been used with the most flattering success, in all the hospitals and infirmaries of Europe, and recommended highly by the most eminent of the faculty; is perfectly mild in its operation, and may be given to children with the greatest safety.

Mayors Office.
Pittsburgh, July 23d, 1817.

IN pursuance of a resolution of the Select and Common councils, of this day, I hereby give notice, that a joint meeting of the said councils will be held, in the chamber of the Common council on Thursday the 31st inst. at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of Electing a Mayor, in the room of the Subscriber, whose ill health obliges him to resign.
E. DENNY, Mayor.

LOOK! before you LEAP!

TRESPASSING, maurauding and pilfering having become so prevalent in the neighbourhood of Pittsburgh, we have considered it a bounden duty to protect our property from such violators of both the laws and constitution of our country. And any person who may in future be detected either in trespassing on our property and enclosures, plundering, or pilfering and destroying of what is ours, and not theirs, may rest assured, that without any exception of persons they will be prosecuted to the full extent of law provided against such offenders. The foolish and inconsiderate, depend on their luck nocturnal address and unknown faces; but they must reflect that good dogs, and guns of sure fire, may bring them to justice.—This notice will be considered in its true spirit, and not to cut ourselves off from the intercourse of our friends, or the society which we shall always be happy in seeing at our houses, by the highway thereto.
